for Spring Activities at Green Bay Botanical Garden*

(Green Bay, WI) (May 2, 2024) - After the long and cold winter, spring blooms are reawakening the beautiful landscape of Green Bay Botanical Garden!

From mid-April through May, more than 350,000 spring bulbs put on a spectacular show – the largest spring display in the state of Wisconsin. From daffodils and tulips to hyacinths and windflowers, experience the vibrant colors and wonderful scents of these blooms throughout spring.

Find these featured flowers this May:

- Rainbow Coalition™ tulip blend paints the parking area red, orange, and purple
- Mucho Gusto™ tulip blend stuns in front of the Thome Fountain with fiery hues
- Aqua hyacinths pair perfectly with the nearby Parrish Family Rain Drop Garden
- Daffodil Charm Offensive™ blend shines white and yellow by the Kaftan Lusthaus

Bulbs aren't the only thing taking center stage this spring! Our collection of over 100 magnolias also blooms around the same time as our spring bulb display, with peak bloom lasting through the first two weeks of May. Our thousands of spring flowering perennials, shrubs, and other trees will be flourishing too!

With a warm season, spring blooms are off to a head start. The flowers are about two weeks ahead of the usual schedule. Keep your eye on the calendar so you don't miss out! Spring blooms will be on display for guests to see throughout mid-May, weather permitting. Peak bloom is anticipated early May through mid-May.
