Peak Spring Bloom Arrives Just in Time for Mother's Day at Green Bay Botanical Garden

(GREEN BAY, WI) (May 5, 2026) — More than 350,000 spring blooms are coming into their peak across Green Bay Botanical Garden, creating the largest spring flower display in Wisconsin and just in time for Mother's Day.

"This is one of the most beautiful times to visit," said Mark Konlock, Director of Horticulture. "The Garden is coming to life all at once, creating a truly immersive spring experience."

From sweeping drifts of daffodils and fragrant hyacinths to magnolias and vibrant seasonal color throughout the Garden's 47 acres, guests can experience a full celebration of spring at its most beautiful.

"This time of year is a reminder of how special this place is to our community," says Laura Nelson, M.D., President & CEO. "Families come here to slow down, reconnect, and celebrate life's meaningful moments together. Experiencing the Garden in full bloom over Mother's Day weekend makes those moments even more memorable."

To complement the peak spring bloom experience, the Garden will host Moms & Mimosas on Sunday, May 10, offering a festive way to enjoy Mother's Day weekend.

Moms enjoy free admission all day! Family and friends can stroll the blooming gardens from 9 am–8 pm with food trucks, delicious beverages, local vendors, and other activities being offered from 10 am–2 pm. Discover waffles from All Belgium Waffles, drinks from Drip Coffee, jewelry options with Weld + Arrow, and more!

Guests can also purchase daily admission online ahead of time and save $1 per ticket! You'll spend less time waiting in line during one of the Garden's busiest spring days.

Those looking for additional ways to recognize the moms in their lives can explore the WPS Trellis Gift Shop, featuring locally inspired gifts, plants, and garden-themed items, or give the gift of a Garden membership — offering year-round access to nature, events, and seasonal beauty.
